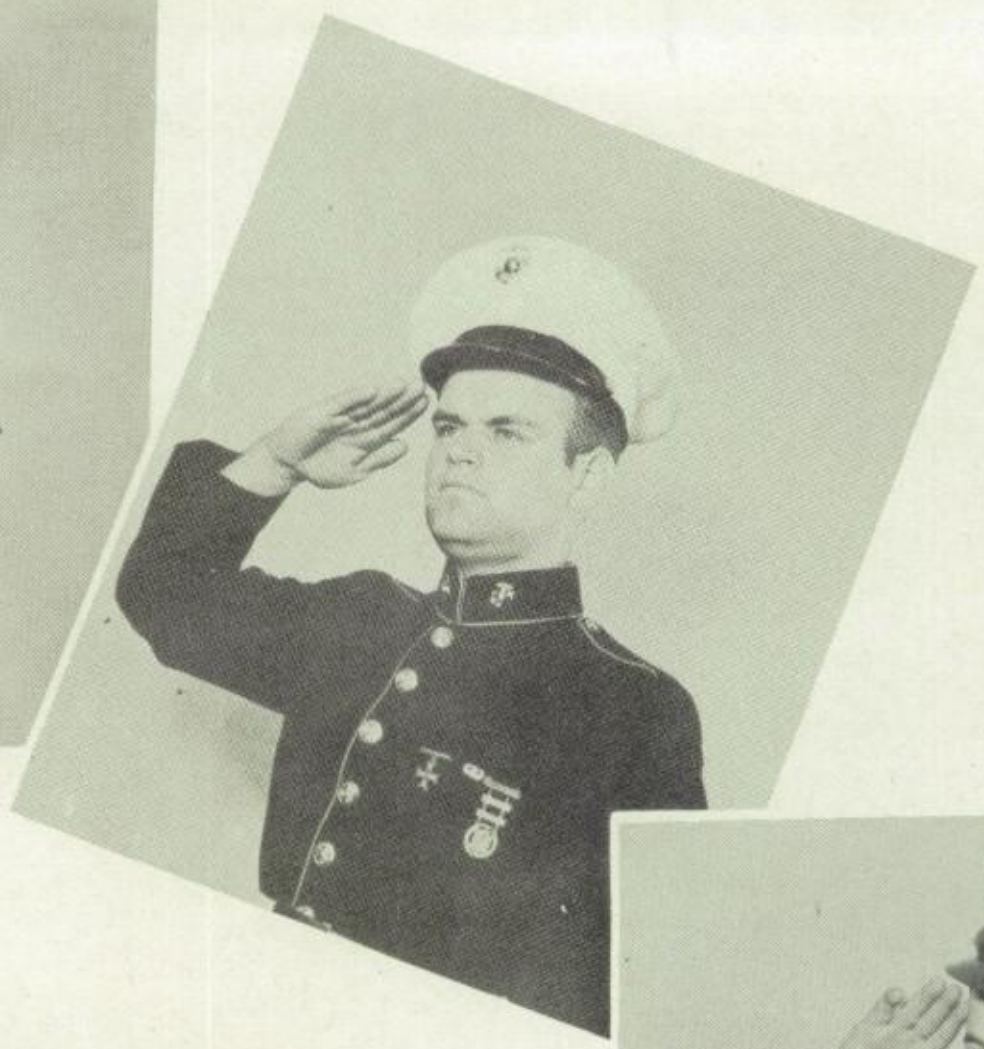
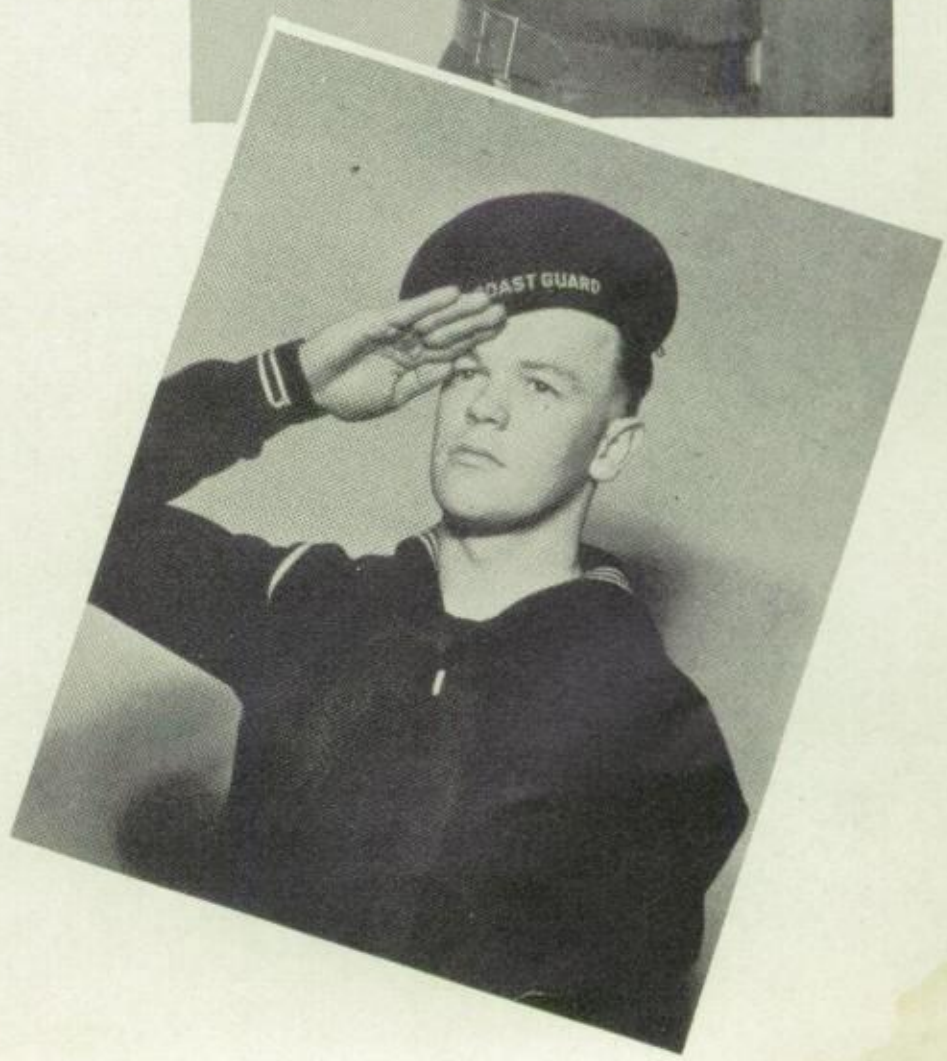
The American Flag

When Freedom, from her mountain height,
  Unfurled her standard to the air,
She tore the azure robe of night,
  And set the stars of glory there;
She mingled with its gorgeous dyes
The milky baldric of the skies,
And striped its pure, celestial white
With streakings of the morning light;
Then, from his mansion in the sun,
She called her eagle bearer down,
And gave into his mighty hand,
The symbol of her chosen land.

Joseph Rodman Drake

Dedication





With the whole world torn by the conflicting ideas of many nations, we have based our theme on our ideals—our freedom and rights as individuals.

We respectfully dedicate this annual with its theme, "The American Way of Life," to the many graduates and instructors of Kingsford who are now fighting to preserve those ideals, while we at home carry them on.

In these pages we have tried to bring you a small part of what these ideals mean to us. Keep and treasure this annual as a memory of your high school days and as long as you keep it, remember, "There is No Way Like the American Way."

Administration

To the Students:

The American Way of Life with all that it embodies is the heritage of American Youth. The recent economic depression and the present World conflict have both brought forth problems and changes which tend to threaten this heritage.

Greater responsibilities are being placed upon our youth at an earlier age than ever before, thus making it necessary for him to intensify his training to meet these new demands. Therefore, it becomes the duty of every American Youth to acquaint himself with the traditions and ideals of his Country and to befit himself for the preservation of his heritage.

Best Wishes for your success.

Sincerely yours,

F. C. Sweeney

Faculty

Students of Kingsford High School:

We are in a great war--a war to preserve the way of living to which we are accustomed under a democracy. We want this way of life so intensely that we are willing to give our lives for it--that others may have it if we make the supreme sacrifice. It is a way of life in which all are equal, in which we can thrive and prosper, in which we can be happy, in which we have the right of private enterprise, in which we have free public education, and many other privileges denied to other peoples.

You young people now in school are the ones who will perpetuate this way of life for the present and future generations. The task is a big one, one that will test the abilities of the youth of today. You must take every precaution to see that you are prepared both physically and mentally to cope successfully with the problems that the present world turmoil produces and will leave in its wake.

Wishing you God speed and success in your endeavor, I am

Most sincerely,

F. D. Davidson

National Honor Society

On May 19, 1943, a meeting of the Kingsford Chapter of the National Honor Society was called to order by the president, Gloria Christian, for the purpose of initiating sixteen new members. These students, voted upon by members of the faculty, are chosen on the basis of character, leadership, service, and scholarship, although the only requirement for the latter is a place in the upper third of the class.

The purpose of this organization is to create enthusiasm for scholarship, stimulate a desire to render service, promote worthy leadership, and encourage development of character in students. Since obtaining its charter in 1934, Kingsford High School has chosen members of its graduating class for this society whose four objectives form a goal which should inspire all students.

Five per cent of the members are selected in their junior year and from this group the officers are chosen. This year's officers are as follows:

President---------Gloria Christian
Vice-president----------Dale Doehr
Secretary----------Jane Brindel
Treasurer----------Roland Bergdahl

Other members chosen in their junior year were Caroline Nelson, Lillian Roosen, George VanGoethem, and Gretchen Wagner.

Freedom to Choose a Career

English

Punctuate that one.

Shakespeare---the modern way.

Sailing into English, we find ourselves embarked upon a new adventure. As freshmen we wandered along the halls and peeked behind open doors in search of our English rooms. The first year, our maiden voyage, found us in a sea of grammar, until we became acquainted with Portia and Shylock in the "Merchant of Venice" as well as our well-beloved David Copperfield.

We sailed into whirlpools of grammar and plunged head-on into the French Revolution in our sophomore year, but we finally came to the surface with a jumble of plots, dates, and Madame DeFarge.

Our third trip found us in junior English which consisted mostly of American literature, famous short stories, and an occasional theme, interspersed with lively class discussions.

We were now Seniors, booked on the ship "Ambition" and bound for the bay of "Success". We dropped anchor into novels, plays, and poetry, where we drifted into a few tragedies such as "Macbeth" and "Hamlet". We coasted through the bay of short stories, and plunged into themes of expository, argumentative, and descriptive natures. The college preparatory class capped the voyage with a 2500 word term paper.

We Master the Mother Tongue

Speech and Languages

"How-do-you-do?"

Poise with books.

If before a crowd you find your nees go wobbly,all the flowery phrases hich you rehearsed are gone, and your well-odulated voice is lost in a piping sound in your hroat, you had better take Public Speaking. There ou will gain poise and confidence, and your wits won't lit off as you step before an audience; soon stage fright will e a thing of the past. Though it perhaps is already natural for ou to wave your hands about when talking to your friends, in Speech ou'll call them beautiful gestures. If by the end of the term you haven't lossomed into an accomplished public speaker, turn in your book and your credit ill be refunded.

"Comment allez-vous?" and "Veni, vidi, vici" may sound like tongue twisters to you, but by the time we've finished our French and Latin courses we've found that they were only the first of many seemingly impossible words that suddenly became very simple.

When we at last emerged from the fog surrounding our first few days of Latin and French, we found ourselves buried in Rome or Paris. Then we struggled through many trying hours of grammar. Then for the first time the conjugating of verbs made sense. When we came to "Caesar", "L'Abbe Constantin", and "La Poudre aux Yeux" we found ourselves up against a stone wall. By the time we finished our course we had reached the conclusion that those Latins and Frenchmen were really human after all.

Mathematics

Remember page 345?

Ooh, the pretty sweater.

Cosines, logarithms, theorems, and unknowns are all common terms in the vernacular of the mathematicians of Kingsford High. Our school offers a wide variety of subjects in the field of mathematics. In recent years the number of students taking this course has been greatly on the up-grade, and especially now with the boys' facing inevitable drafting into the Armed Forces they realize more than ever their great need of having a sound background in mathematics, because men with mathematical ability can really "go places" in the service.

In addition to the regular algebra and geometry classes, advanced students may elect to study advanced algebra and solid geometry. During the second semester of each year, Mr. Davidson blows the dust off his trigonometry book and the students' brains as well. This subject completes their mathematics career for high school days.

All in all, our graduates who enter colleges throughout the country are well-equipped to compete scholastically with other students because of the excellent background in mathematics gained at Kingsford High School.

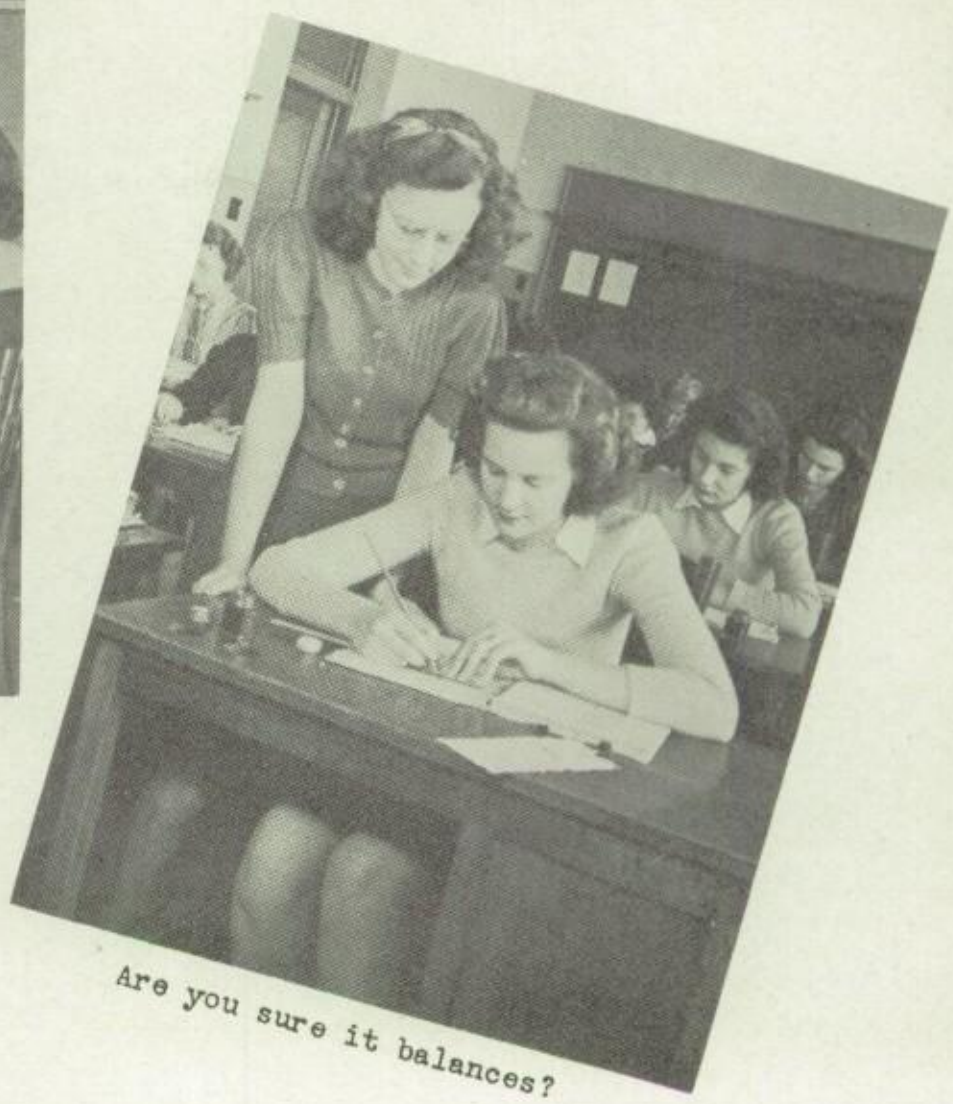
New version of Columbus system?



Are you sure it balances?

Agile fingers fly over the keyboard transcribing the curly-cues of shorthand dictation; typing is indeed a wonderful time-saver, once one has mastered the art of plucking out appropriate words from the jumbled alphabet. In the bookkeeping classes students are laboring diligently with ledgers and trial balance, obtaining the knowledge necessary for their future positions, while others are enthusiastically learning the rudiments of general office training. Under the pleasant guidance of their teachers, scholars of the commercial classes work with great zeal in hopes that they might become capable stenographers and bookkeepers.

Seniors, upon completing the commercial course, are prepared to step into well-paid positions, especially in these days when the government is in such great need of trained office workers. Yes, the commercial courses are leading our students into successful paths of life.

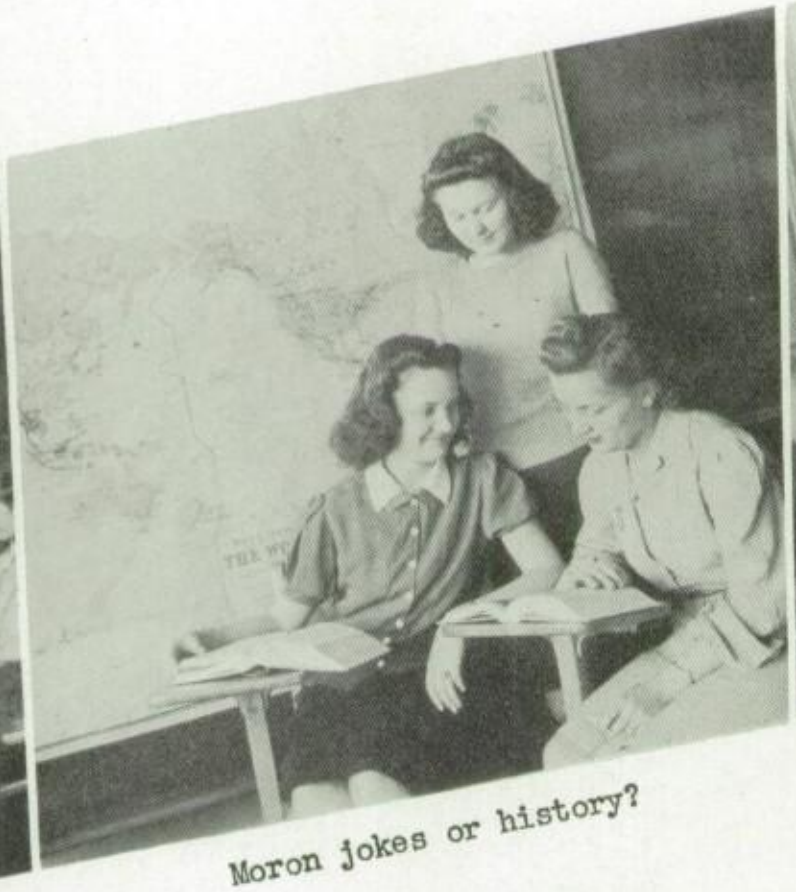
Social Science

"We are Americans!"

Future lawmakers.



Moron jokes or history?

Can this be our library?

"We are Americans!" And rightfully proud of our nationality are we, after studying the history of our native land. True democracy has been the foundation upon which our land has been built; therefore it is only natural that American history and civics should be the "must take" subjects of the high school curriculum, since it is here that we learn the meaning of the term "democracy" as applied to our own country. Vocations, sociology, economics, as well as ancient, world, and modern history also play their part in teaching the merits of freedom as seen through the ages.

Now that we are at war with the tyrants of the world it is all-important that the youth of America who will soon be "in there fighting" should understand the real meaning of "Americanism"--that the beliefs which we have always fostered might not perish but be perpetuated through the generations to come. Where could a more excellent opportunity to learn this be given than in a social science class.

Science

Are you making Malteds?

The wise birds of the class.

Zyxwustvziskm----yes, that is a slight typographical error, but the words we come up against in our science classes are somewhat similar in appearance and pronunciation.

Our first contact with science comes when we are freshmen and take general science. In this class we study everything from micro-organisms to the universe.

When we are sophomores we take biology, a very interesting study of living things----birds, animals, plants, and man. Here future nurses and doctors get their first real experiences with dissecting.

The next year, if we are bold enough to continue this course we have so nobly begun, we enroll in the physics class. Physics, a study of matter and energy, is at first a hopeless confusion of machines and formulas but later we really find it interesting.

Now we are seniors and we conclude our science course by taking chemistry. In this class we are continuously lost in a hazy blue atmosphere while we laboriously attempt to determine the chemical reactions of our experiments.

At last we are at the end of this interesting, but difficult course and we are rightfully proud if we have done well.

Ours is a scientific mission

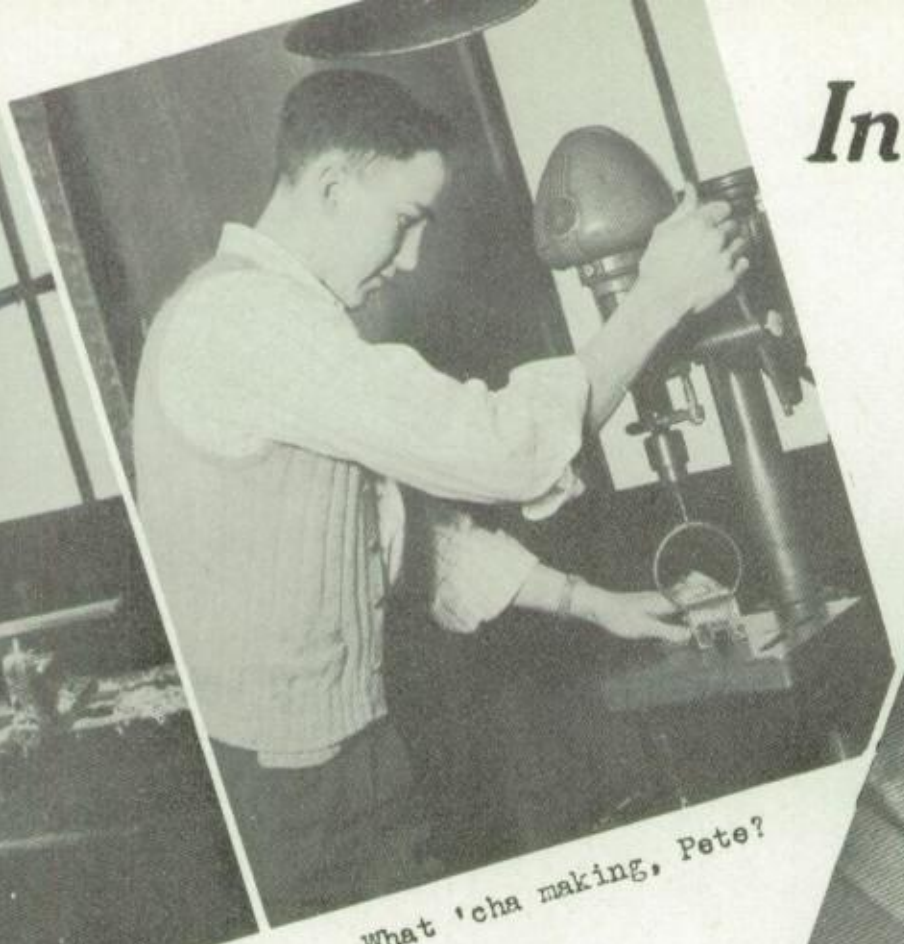
Industrial Arts

Haven't you got a broom?



What 'cha making, Pete?

Early Birds.

Skillful hands for Uncle Sam

Buzz!! Bang!! Ouch!! What goes on? It's just the industrious industrial arts crew hard at work with their machines, hammers, and nails, and they really must work because every day we see the boys carrying home the "fruits of their labor" in the shape of dustpans, bookcases, end tables, and many other useful articles.

We are indeed very fortunate that our school offers to those students interested in becoming skilled laborers one of the best and modern industrial arts departments in the state.

This department is really working overtime this year; the boys have classes before school, and the defense workers keep the machines "hot" all night.

Under this new, speeded-up program the boys realize fully how valuable this training is toward finding employment in war industries.Because of the excellent opportunities and experience derived from our industrial arts classes, the students will acquire an efficiency in their work, which will enable them to do their best in the production lines as well as in the Armed Forces.

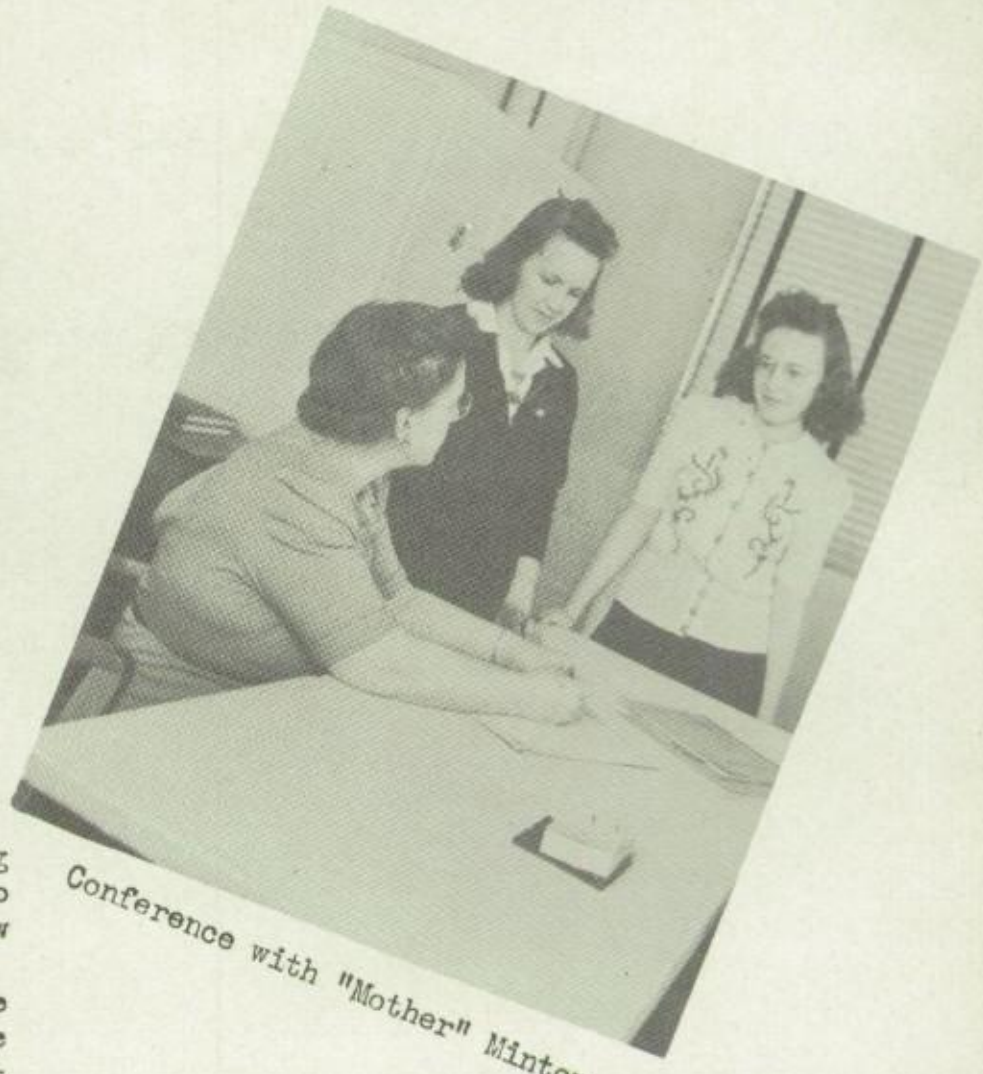
Home Economics

Bring on the eats.



Conference with "Mother" Minton.

Calories, calcium, proteins, French seams, and tailor tacks are all familiar terms to the students of Home Economics.

The first year students puzzle over the art of good grooming and choosing a wardrobe. When they find themselves advanced to the cooking department they learn their first "secrets" on how to whip up creations to tempt any palate.

Balancing calories, vitamins, and food budgets at the same time is the work of the second year students. Later we see them sewing busily on woolen materials. To see a straight piece of goods turn into the latest thing in "Vogue" is really a marvelous sight.

The brave souls who venture to take the third year course study Period furniture, home planning and decoration, and quantity cookery. Red Cross work has also played an important part this year.

This department has developed into the social hobby of the school. Football banquets, school board dinners, faculty teas are annual affairs. In fact, any school organization that finds its picnic has been ruined by a rainy day will always find the latch string open on the Vocational Building.

Victory Courses

Pioneers for new frontiers

The first of the new Victory Courses to find its ay into our curriculum was Basic Mathematics, which rilled upon every fundamental of arithmetic from the reshman algebra to senior trigonometry. Rapid calcu- ations in arithmetic, which might some day save a ife or an airplane, are particularly stressed. All ypes of percentage, the study of maps and charts, and he use of slide rules are only a few of the brain easers in the Basic Math. course.

Elementary aeronautics, though the smallest class, s vitally important to the few who are taking it. irplane parts, flying by radio, pilot rating require- ents are not just facts to these boys; they represent a future in which they are intensely interested.

Probably the most popular of these courses is the Commando or Physical Education course as it is called in peace time. Here the boys exercise their manly muscles, Calisthenics, you know, 1-2-3-4, is a regular feature of this course.

The big event of the year was the Commando basketball tournaments, or the KHS version of the Dead End Kids. Anything was legal as long as it wasn't tripping, slugging or fighting with the officials.

When the boys have completed this course, they will find they have been taking work very similar to that given in the Armed Forces.

"Wanta have your picture taken!"---Want to or not, the Photo Club members will snap it anyway. Mr. Barry with his feet on the desk, Jack talking to Mary, Betty chewing gum, no one escapes these camera maniacs.

"Most practical club in the school" report the clicksters who crowd in to enjoy the facilities of a well-equipped darkroom and instruction from Mr. Johnson. Developing, printing, and enlarging pictures, making portraits, and learning the art of being camera experts are only a few of the things these "snap-happy photo-bugs" do. Most successful in the history of the club was their work in taking pictures for the 1943 Kingsfordian.

Now let's not get the idea that their time is all given over to work. Fun is also included in their activities. This year the club began with the initiation of new members--a bicycle hike to the Quinnesec Falls. What those poor rookies didn't have to do!! The weather man interfered with their carefully planned winter outing but they struck back at their spring picnic which wound up a year of active work.

Dudleigh Schroder was president; Herman Erdmann, vice-president; Marilyn Mallory, secretary; and Beatrice Tjernlund, treasurer. Mr. Orland Johnson is the advisor.

The Guiding Rules

Gathered in the library on Wednesday mornings, the Student Council racks over the problems of student government. Here, behind closed doors, representatives of the various home rooms assemble themselves to tend to the "big business" of the school.

Leading the organization this year has been Roland Bergdahl, president; Joyce Dixon, vice-president; and Jane Brindel, secretary-treasurer; with Mr. Stanaway as advisor.

Much of the council's work is the performance of routine tasks such as conducting the annual Junior Red Cross Drive, supervising the weekly clean-up drives, and sponsoring the annual Thanksgiving Dance. The Victory Scrap Drive, also in their charge, was cleverly managed; each student bringing five pounds of scrap metal to this dance was given a chance on a live turkey. The honor awards presented to outstanding seniors were purchased by the student council. The outstanding work of the group this year was the making of a beautiful service flag in honor of the boys of Kingsford High School who are now serving in the Armed Forces.

Hi-Y Club

Fun! We certainly had it in Hi-Y, probably because variety, the keynote of our meetings was combined with a peppy group of boys. The carnival, the assembly, the winter and spring outings were only a few of our accomplishments.

On September 8, Bob Weber took the gavel in hand and presided over the first meeting. The other officers were George VanGoethem, vice-president; Gerald Renish, secretary; and Roland Bergdahl, treasurer. When George and Gerald entered the Naval Reserve at mid-term, Don DeClark became vice-president, and Bud Moreau, secretary.

Plans were begun at once for the initiation which included an informal affair and a solemn induction of new members. The Hi-Y boys prepared and distributed the programs at the annual Iron Mountain football game. At their assembly they presented a hilarious comedy "Girl Shy". Late in April everyone turned out to enjoy an evening of fun at their well-planned carnival.

Other activities of the year included the Older Boys' Conference, the joint Girl Reserve and Hi-Y meeting with Iron Mountain, and a wide variety of social meetings at which professional and servicemen gave interesting talks.

Girl Reserves

"Everywhere, always, in sunshine, in shadow, in success, we the Girl Reserves 'follow the Gleam'." Oft repeated are these words in the quest of the Girl Reserves.

Following the Light of greater loyalties they set out to fill in a well-rounded circle of activities. The year was started with initiation, both formal and informal. A number of outside speakers gave talks at the biweekly meetings, the highlight of this series being a talk by Sydney Weed, a former Girl Reserve now enlisted in the WAVES. Other activities were the annual Valentine dance, the joint meeting with the Iron Mountain Hi-Y and Girl Reserves, and the Mother and Daughter Tea. A few of the girls took a First-Aid course supervised by Mrs. Setterberg, while others rolled bandages for the Red Cross. Bar sales were held and a show was sponsored during the year. To top off the year's activities the annual house party was held at Spread Eagle.

The officers of the club are Joyce Miresse, president; Gretchen Wagner, vice-president; Gloria Christian, secretary; and Patty Ryan, treasurer. Mrs. Minton and Miss Hammersmith are the advisors.

Varsity Club

Representing blocks, sprints, and baskets.

Reserved--for letter men only! At meetings sports-minded boys rolled the ball of conversation. The club this year has changed advisors and is now under the guiding eye of Coach Barry, while their former advisor, Coach Schrader, does his bit for our country

Rolling the ball down the lane of activity these boys started the year off with their annual initiation. Amidst the hurry and scurry of passing classes we pick out these oddly dressed boys. This is nothing compared to the treatment bestowed upon them in the evening.

The boys carried off with a flourish the Commandos and grade school tournament. The first dance of the season was sponsored by them and also the bar sales at football and basketball games.

Ah! There goes a letterman now. Glance quickly and notice the change on the letters. Just an added touch, the U.P. Champs, but it surely means a lot.

The "officials" of the club are Bob Steinke--president; Gerald Renish, vice-president; George Van Goethem, secretary; and Bob Weber, treasurer.

Hurrying through the corridors after hours we suddenly encounter hearty chuckles issuing from the Dramatic Club Headquarters. Ah, yes, the future actors and actresses of K.H.S. are proceeding with a hilarious comedy. Classroom chairs are scattered about the front of the room as a substitute for furniture, and the cast is tripping lithely through the many dramatic scenes. When the evening of the final production arrives, our youthful players will blossom forth as talented entertainers.

Throughout the year active members of the club have been called upon to give dramatic readings and short plays at various programs in the community.

The organization was led this year by president, Beatrice Tjernlund; vice-president, Marian Lindstrom; secretary, Jeanne Thomas; and treasurer, Joyce Provencher. Miss Haskell has been the new advisor.

Morale is Our Work

We tie 'em in knots.

D.A.C.'s to the rescue.

Cramming for a test?

"Don't roll that bandage crooked! Hey, that splint isn't on straight! Are you sure that's a square knot?" These are only a few of the queries overheard at a meeting of the D.A.C.'s.

The Debutante Auxiliary Corps is one of our newest clubs, organized under the advisorship of Miss Larsen to create an interest in defense work.

Their first accomplishment was to master a First-Aid course given under the supervision of Mrs. Setterberg. Then with added zest they began to roll bandages for the Red Cross. At a meeting on March 9, they were the guests of the Girl Reserves at which time Mrs. Flodin spoke on the subject of the "Merchant Marines". Their other activities consisted of social meetings, a Christmas party, and a spring outing.

Their officers, chosen according to rank, are as follows:

General (President). . . . . Bonnie Anderson

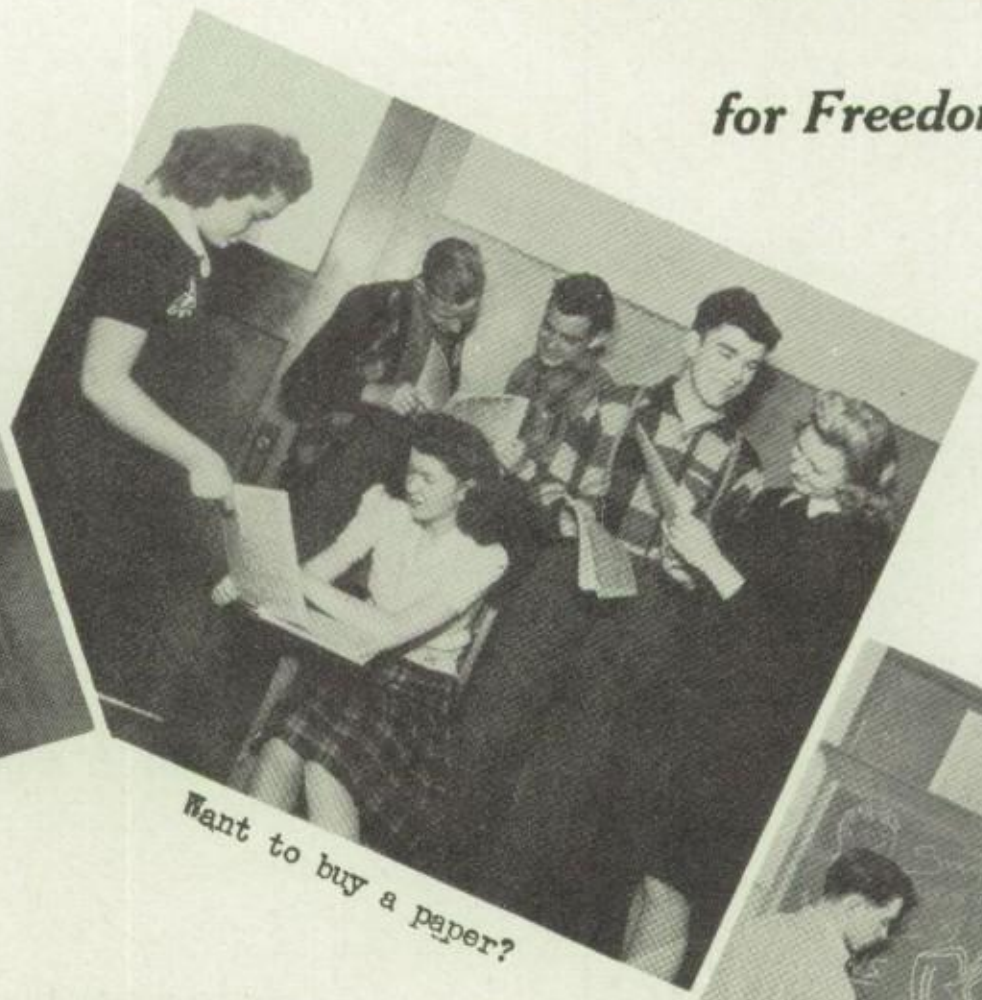
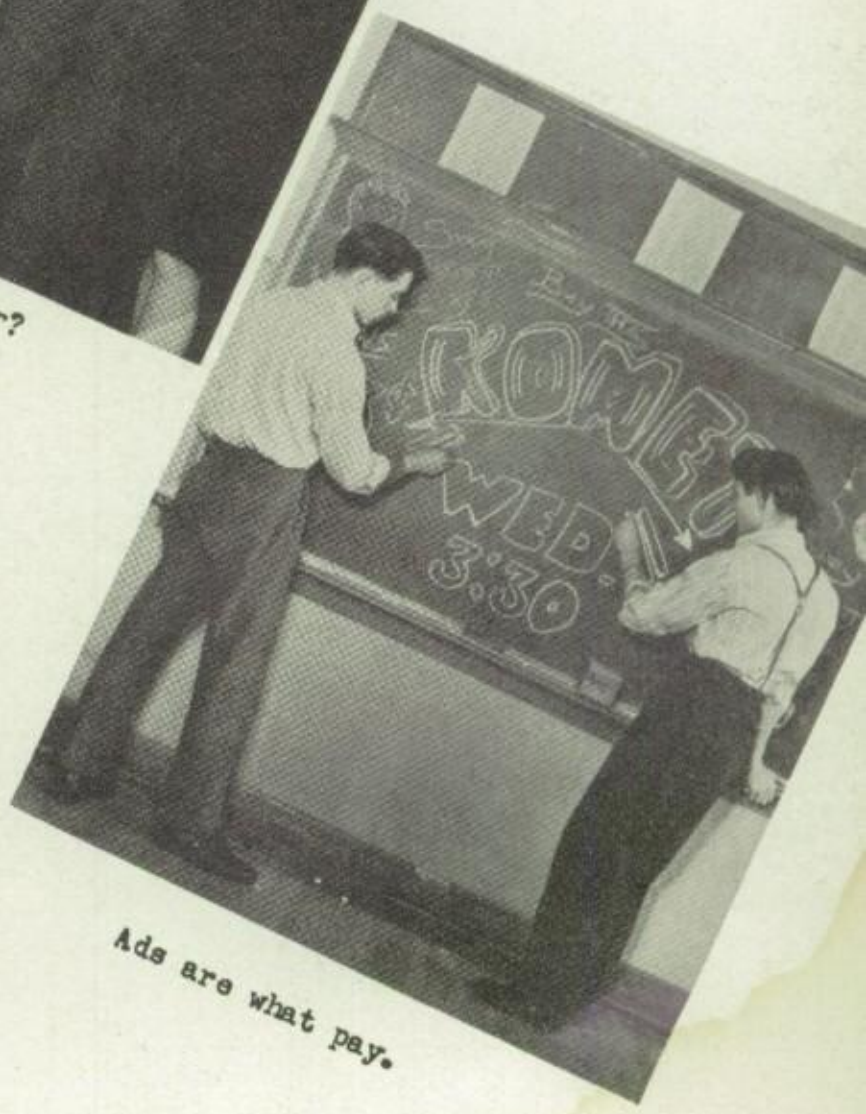
Deadline or bust!!



Want to buy a paper?



Ads are what pay.

"The Komet will be on sale Wednesday at 3:30" is the announcement heard every three weeks by our students. To them it means eagerly scanning the paper for "Gossip Bits","Newsy news Notes", and "Brief Biogs", but to the staff it means hours of work. Upon making a brief visit to the Komet office you would hear pencils scratching,typewriters pounding, papers rustling, and the editors impatiently awaiting "time" for the deadline date.

Aside from publishing the paper the staff takes time off from work for an occasional "blast". A Christmas party and a spring picnic are annual affairs. During the second semester they also enjoyed a dinner party at a Norway restaurant.

The staff is as follows:

Musical Kadets

Let's hang our hats on the music rack, let down our sharps and flats, and take a look into what the Musical Kadets are doing.

Glancing down the scale we see them at their winter outing, skiing and tobogganing. Oh, what fun to watch beginners taking falls.

Now we see them singing at our Christmas and spring concerts, and also at the Teacher's Convention at the Iron Mountain High School and Home Defense Rally. Robed in black gowns they certainly make a fascinating appearance.

Resting somewhere along the scale they take time out for a little relaxation and enjoy their annual spring picnic.

It was this year that they were granted their charter and acknowledged as one of the active clubs in our school. Miss Flitcroft, the music supervisor is their advisor. The officers of the club are as follows:

Good Sportmanship

Football

This year's edition of the Kingsford football team was the most powerful ever assembled under our colors and undoubtedly was one of the greatest ever seen in the Upper Peninsula.

For the first time in the history of the school a Kingsford team finished an entire season without defeat, only a tie spoiling a perfect record.

Under the able direction of Coach Barry, the Flivvers came up with a devastating attack that was practically unstoppable once it began to roll and a stone wall defense that just refused to be moved. The Flivvers backfield thundered to a total of 103 points while holding the opposition to a meager 25.

The highlights of the season were the hard earned decisions over Escanaba and Norway; the massacre of a strong Stambaugh eleven by 21-7 and finally the most important of all, the crushing 33-0 annihiliation of an Iron Mountain team that was out to give us our first setback.

The only blemish on the record was the 6-6 tie with Calumet who shared the Co-Championship of the U.P. with our boys.

Five conference victories easily gave us the undisputed Menominee Range title and thus left us the football power of the U.P. for another year.

First line of defense

The power of the Kingsford High School football team was further recognized when Flivvers players were chosen on every All-Star team of note.

The All-Range team was completely dominated by our boys as Paul Goodreau, Bob Weber, Bob Steinke, Keith Renish, Fred Paquette, and Gerry Renish were picked either on first or second teams.

This was followed with the selection of Bob Weber, Paul Goodreau, Keith Renish, and Bob Steinke to the ranks of the All-U.P. squad.

The crowning achievement of all was the selection of Paul Goodreau as an end on the All-State team. It was a just tribute to the big boy who was by far one of the best ends ever seen in the U.P.

In all, Kingsford was well represented on honor teams this year.

Never in the history of our school has a Flivver basketball team shown so much fight and courage as this year's squad. Despite the fact that all the chips were stacked up against them from the start, they battled every game to the limit.

Of the fourteen games played, the Flivvers won three and lost eleven. Two of the victories were over Stambaugh and the other was against Menominee.

It was hard to pick out individual stars but Ernie Massignan deserves plenty of credit for piling up over one hundred points. On defense Bob Weber was the most versatile and consistent guard on the team.
